Art Unit: 3723

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1 and 6 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by either Anderson or Sharp.

Anderson shows a puller tool. The tool has a cylindrical rod 14 having a handle end and a flared engaging end, a cylindrical hammer 22, a cylindrical impact collar 23, and an engaging lip 20.

Sharp shows a "prior art" puller tool in Figures 1 and 2. The "prior art" tool has a cylindrical rod having a handle end and a flared engaging end, a cylindrical hammer, a cylindrical impact collar, and an engaging lip.

Statements of intended use have not been accorded any patentable weight. In any case the Anderson and Sharp tools are seen to be capable of performing the recited intended use: ie., these tools are capable of pulling an oil seal.

Claims 2-5 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Analogous devices are taught by Perea and Johnson et al.
